Other examples, listed by Christine Hamilton in her Book of British Battleaxes, include Nancy Astor, Boudica, Ena Sharples and Ann Widdecombe.
The battleaxe is one of several stereotypes found in nursing – a tyrannical, fierce matron exemplified by Nurse Ratched or Hattie Jacques in popular medical dramas and comedies.

Battle-axe (woman)—Wikipedia

A battle axe (also battle-axe, battle ax, or battle-ax) is an axe specifically designed for combat.
Battle axes were specialized versions of utility axes.
Many were suitable for use in one hand, while others were larger and were deployed two-handed.

A Man With One of Those Faces is the first book in Caimh McDonnell's Dublin Trilogy, which melds fast-paced action with a distinctly Irish acerbic wit. Praise for A Man With One of Those Faces: "One of the funniest crime books you could read." The Express "A brilliant comedic thriller." The Irish Post "It's just crying out to be made into a movie.

A Man With One of Those Faces (The Dublin Trilogy): Amazon

A man with one of those faces is the perfect book to read when you need some cheering up.
It is a thriller and a murder mystery but most of all it is very funny.
An example of the type of humor is below so beware it is not for the squeamish.

At first, it seemed really different as One was my first book in free-verse.
However the book is actually easier to read.
I really enjoyed it because of the layout, so I recommend you to read One.
