These are the first words of Jacques Derrida's lecture on Heidegger. It is again a question of Nazism of what remains to be thought through of Nazism in general and of Heidegger's Nazism in particular. It is also "politics of spirit" which at the time people thought they still want to today to oppose to the inhuman.

He focuses especially on Heidegger's Destruktion (which Derrida would translate both into "solicitation" and "deconstruction") of the history of ontology, and indeed of ontology as such, concentrating on passages that call for a rethinking of the place of history in the question of being, and developing a radical account of the place of metaphoricality in Heidegger's thinking.

Heidegger: The Question of Being and History- Derrida
The question of Heidegger and politics has plagued (and will continue to plague) continental philosophy since Heidegger's induction into the Rektorship under the Nazi regime in the thirties. Why did he? But, and perhaps more importantly, why does something like Nazism come up? What is it about the West that breeds this kind of pathological racism?

Of Spirit: Heidegger and the Question by Jacques Derrida
This is one way of asking what Heidegger calls the question of the meaning of Being, and Being and Time is an investigation into that question. Many of Heidegger's translators capitalize the word 'Being' (Sein) to mark what, in the Basic Problems of Phenomenology , Heidegger will later call the ontological difference , the crucial distinction between Being and beings (entities).

Martin Heidegger (Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy)
Heidegger is concerned with questioning the essence of technology and in particular, modern technology, which he understands as something different to older, pre-industrialised forms of technology.

Notes on Heidegger's "The Question Concerning Technology"
Heidegger argues that the question of being would still provide a stimulus to the research of Plato and Aristotle, but it was precisely with them that the original experience of being of the early Greeks was covered over. The fateful event was followed by the gradual slipping away of the distinction between being and beings.

On Martin Heidegger's The Origin of the Work of Art | by
This 'Question of Being' has a long heritage in the Western philosophical tradition, but for Heidegger, to merely ask what is Being? is problematic, as that emphasis tends to objectify Being as a 'thing' – that is to say, it separates off 'Being' (whatever it is) from the questioner of Being. This for Heidegger is making unhelpful assumptions of the nature of Being even before interrogating what Being actually is.

Heidegger's Ways of Being | Issue 126 | Philosophy Now
Heidegger, in Being and Time (1927), describes the condition of Dasein, this being particularly where Being has to be there. – The existing human, thrown into the world and abandoned to itself (what Heidegger calls our dereliction), is a reality whose nature is to be mainly concern: which means it is constantly thrown forward of himself, he s'anticpe itself, it never coincides with its ...
